Seek to End Sailor Strike as Trouble Flares

By The Canadian Press

Owners of Great Lakes ships, officers of the Canadian Seamen's Union and government authorities assembled today in Ottawa in an effort to settle the two-day-old strike of lake seamen, as trouble flared on Toronto docks and crews of additional freighters joined the strike.

TWO CANADA steamship lines from the Great Lakes and the Grainmotor, sailed from Kingston, Ont., harbor with a non-union crew aboard and property for the two other CSL ships—the Mapleleaf and Barrie—carrying non-union crew. The two ships were arrested when strike pickets swarmed over a fence toward a motor vehicle, which they thought was carrying non-union seamen to work on ships tied up in the harbor.

THE UNION CLAIMED 10 ships had been seized by the union and several others were anchored at various points on their captains' orders to leave the harbor. Only 15 ships of the union were in the harbor.

U.S. City of 45,000

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 28.—(AP)—Raging flood waters of the Susquehanna river today covered a fifth of the residential areas of this city of 45,000 persons as railroad and highway communications were cut by the water.

THE FLOOD, caused by four days of heavy rains culminating in a cloudburst yesterday, reached a stage of 27.5 feet at 8:30 a.m. 5 1/2 feet above flood stage, with a crest of 38 feet.

In the disastrous 1936 flood which damaged millions of dollars worth of property, thousands of thousands in central Pennsylvania homeless, the flood waters reached a stage of 38 feet.

With highways to the north and west already cut and other roads blocked by the rising water, persons living in low-lying sections were moved to higher parts of the town by trucks. A third of the town being inundated or cut off.

FLOOD WATERS inundated scores of houses in Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York and left in their wake two known dead and hundreds homeless.

PROSPECTS for the Ottawa meeting were not bright. It was preceded by an acrimonious exchange of telegrams yesterday between Federal Labor Minister Mitchell and J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, president of the Seamen's Union, who has set up strike headquarters in Toronto.

The government also received strongly worded telegrams of protest from various unions showing the arrest of strikers' leaders. Reports to the Canadian Press showed 48 had been arrested from Montreal to the head of the lakes and the strike headquarters said warrants had been issued for another 48.

THE ARRESTS were made under a clause of the Canada Shipping Act.

Taxation Threat To All Business

CALGARY, May 28.—(CP)—Hon. Lucien Maynard, attorney-general, told a Social Credit meeting here last night that business was in danger of being taxed out of existence due to the failure of the recent Dominion-provincial conference to work out new division of taxation between the federal and provincial governments.

He said the government would resist increases in income and corporation taxes.

LIBERALS SACRIFICED more principle for the sake of an advance, than any other province, he said. Apart from the depressing effect of duplicate taxation, business will stagnate until the tax position is clarified.

Although Ontario and Quebec have not yet clarified their position, British Columbia and the Dominion never reached agreement in principle on the Quebec issue.

It would agree, Quebec's opposition was immaterial. If the federal government knew the people of Ontario stood against the bill, it would force a showdown. As it is, the other provinces are just economic colonies of Ontario and Quebec, Mr. Maynard said.

Premier Ernest Manning, speaking in the House of Commons, said if the courts rule against the bill, it will be dropped, because the government would not fight for law. If the law is wrong, it should be changed, not defied.

Atom Work Rights Claimed by Spain

MADRID, May 28.—(AP)—The Spanish foreign ministry said today Spain has a "perfect right" to investigate atomic energy and "cannot recognize the competence" of the United Nations in matters affecting Spain.

The ministry distributed a statement which said the Spanish position was made clear in notes distributed to foreign missions here May 25. It continued:

"ALTHOUGH THE Spanish government, like all other countries, has a perfect right to provide itself with adequate means for national defence, including investigations of atomic energy, diplomatic missions accredited in Madrid have proof of the falsity of statements that such investigations are being made."

British Press Raps Molotov Remarks

LONDON, May 28.—(CP)—British morning newspapers today challenged editorially Foreign Minister Molotov's review of the foreign minister's conference in Paris.

One called his statement in Moscow yesterday the "explosion of a diplomatic Molotov cocktail," and another said he had widened the "raggy breach" between Russia and her former Allies.

ON THE OTHER HAND, Mr. Molotov's outspokenness was commended. Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express said "Molotov speaks on open diplomacy" and added that "we may not accept all or any of his arguments."

The newspaper said that "out of such public exchange of views there will come in due course a unification of policy, as suspicious and misconceptions are by one dissolved."

The independent London Daily Mail, under heading "Reality, Least," said Mr. Molotov "widened the tragic breach dividing Russia from her former Allies."

"When he spoke of 'imperial domination' and 'certain powers attempting to impose their will on the rest,' he must have done so with tongue in cheek," the paper said.

than three hours because neither side "was ready" for the next move in the negotiations.

The explanation of the postponement was offered by Mr. Krug's office after a four-man union delegation showed up without Mr. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers.

A SPOKESMAN for Mr. Krug told reporters the four union officials talked with Vice Admiral Ben Morrell, deputy coal mine administrator, about "alleged discrimination" in the operation of the mines. All signs pointed to an early agreement as Lewis and Krug ended a conference last night.

Encouraging evidence was the fact that union counsel were called in to work on the legal points of proposals under discussion—something that rarely happens unless the rough draft of a contract has been blocked out.

Despite this new hope, the mines still stood idle. United States coal supply shrank hourly toward the danger point.

Chiang Announces Conditions to Reds

NANKING, May 28.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek, his position strengthened by government troop advances in Manchuria, was reported today to have laid down terms which Chinese Communists must meet as a prerequisite to further talks on ending civil war in the great northeast territory. The extreme right-wing Kuomintang (National party) newspaper Ta Kung Pao said the generalissimo had advised Gen. Marshall, special United States envoy to China, that Communists must recognize government sovereignty in Manchuria and help restore its communications as a precondition to new peace talks. Communist reaction to Chiang's reported terms was lacking.

Act, providing penalties for "absence without leave" from vessels—or desertion.

Those arrested were only a fraction of the men on strike. The union claimed that 61 ships had been tied up from Montreal to the lakehead. The owners asserted that only 17 out of 115 ships had been anchored by the strike. The owners were recruiting any available men to replace strikers.

George R. Donovan of Toronto, secretary of the Dominion Maritime Association and spokesman for the ship operators, charged the union had broken its contract which still had to run to July 31.

SULLIVAN countered that it was the operators who broke the contract, not the union. He wired federal Labor Minister Mitchell that the operators violated the contract by refusing to allow a union delegate to board a vessel in Montreal; by dismissing union crewmen; by making a separate application to the National War Labor Board on questions of wages and hours before the contract had expired, and by reclassifying ratings before getting the labor board's permission.

Official negotiations under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan had reached their third phase today. Today he is hearing the union's case.

The union is expected to complete the statement of its case today, following which negotiations will move to Victoria where Chief Justice Sloan will hear the operators' side of the dispute.

HE WILL THEN make recommendations to both on how he believes the strike can be settled. The recommendations will not be binding on either party.

Meanwhile, B.C. government intervention in the strike is the goal of a planned mass lobby at Victoria.

The lobby will be made up of thousands of striking woodworkers in addition to representatives and supporters of the province's trade unions, farm, veterans' and community organizations at the invitation of the IWA.

THE IWA'S NEW move is based on assertion that the provincial government has taken no stand in the dispute except to call the strike illegal and that the government should "compel the operators to meet the just demands of the union."

"The march on the provincial capital will get underway June 3 with Vancouver Island to prepare the automobile transportation, fishing vessels to be secured for mainland woodworkers, and Victoria workers to find housing and food facilities for an indefinite stay."

will be completing what are still tentative proposals for government action.

R. V. STUART, operator representative, last night wired a reply to finance minister Halsey's request that the lumber industry resume the production of boxes to save British Columbia's fruit crop.

The reply said the employers concerned will willingly agree to immediate resumption of operations at these plants on the basis that workers will be paid at rates finally incorporated in the contract now under negotiation.

IWA district president Harold Pritchett telegraphed Mr. Halsey that the union is "prepared to do everything humanly possible to bring about a just settlement of the strike" and urged federal government intervention "to force the lumber operators who stand in the way of crop harvesting, to accept union's proposals on wages and hours and abide by the award of Arbitrator Sloan on union security."

HE CONTENDED that employers are fully responsible for delay in sincere efforts during nine weeks of negotiations and in the interior have refused to sign an agreement since 1944.

MEET AND MIX FROM COAST TO COAST IN CANADA

Manitoba's Whiteshell

IN EASTERN MANITOBA "where the North comes down to meet you" lies a thousand square miles of beauty where, in 1734, La Verendrye traversed the Whiteshell River through the heart of today's Whiteshell Provincial Park, one of the newest, and most unusual of all Canada's incomparable scenic playgrounds.

Memories of a visit to "the Whiteshell" never fade. There's endless variety of scenery, vistas of quiet forestland, grim ramparts of granite, undulating meadowlands studded with graceful birch and peopled with wild life—all this in a lovely setting of 200 crystal clear lakes and streams.

Every province has its own tourist attractions to offer the millions of post-war tourists expected this year. The tourist business benefits every Canadian, directly or indirectly. Contacts with visitors from the U.S.A. and citizens from other provinces of Canada are alike in building a spirit of unity and understanding.

This message is the fourth of a series supporting the efforts of our Government's Travel Bureau and Provincial Tourist Associations. Offered in the public service by:

Seeks Abolition Of Jobless Body

OTTAWA, May 28.—(CP)—Abolition of the Unemployment Insurance Commission was proposed last night in the senate by Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader.

THE UPPER HOUSE gave second reading to a bill amending the Unemployment Insurance Act and sent it to the immigration and labor committee for detailed study.

During discussion on the bill Senator G. C. McGeer (L.—British Columbia) suggested the act should be broadened to make provision for a retirement allowance as the basis for a contributory old age pension plan.

Senator Haig said one of the important changes proposed was placing national employment offices within the jurisdiction of the labor minister, rather than under the commission. The commission would retain control of the unemployment insurance fund.

"I think the government should take the entire scheme over," he said. "The commission becomes a fifth wheel."

CONTROL of re-employment was essential to operation of the scheme and it should be in the hands of the labor department, Senator Haig said. It was a welcome change from a tendency to place public affairs in the hands of commissions which were not accessible to parliament. In advocating abolition of the commission he said he was not criticizing the personnel of the commission.

Senator Haig said he doubted whether it was fair that persons who had little likelihood of becoming unemployed should be compelled to contribute to the fund.

Truman Legislation Stirs Congress Row

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Sweeping anti-labor legislation hit again in congress yesterday amid furious charges and denials that President Truman was "hampering" and that his legislative lieutenants were "stalling" on a permanent bill to curb labor unions. As a powerful coalition of senate Democrats and Republicans opened fire on the President's request for temporary power to draft men who strike against the government, Senator Wayne L. Morse (Rep.—Ore.) accused Mr. Truman of "one of the cheapest exhibitions of man acting I have ever seen."

HE ASSERTED the White House knew at noon Saturday that the federal strikers were ready to work—more than four hours before Mr. Truman made the announcement of the end of the strike in a dramatic interruption of his address to congress.

Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, arose to accuse Sen. Morse of "one of the greatest injustices ever done a President of the United States." The parliamentary situation in the house was such that action was not expected for three days and possibly 10.

Order New Trial For Convicted Man

TORONTO, May 28.—(CP)—A new trial was ordered by the court of appeal yesterday for Thomas Gibbons, 46-year-old farmer who had been convicted of murder in the shooting of Joseph and John Fitzmaurice, brothers, on a snow-covered lane near his home at Douglas in Renfrew county, not far from Ottawa, last February. At the trial in Pembroke, Gibbons had been sentenced to hang on June 11.

PRO SWATS PUPIL MONTREAL, May 28.—(CP)—Lewis Morris, who tried to show a golf beginner the correct back swing and succeeded only in striking his pupil a severe blow on the head, was ordered yesterday by Judge Louis Lorranger to pay $300 damages to the injured man, Isidore Parisky, who sued for $16,360. The plaintiff said he was knocked unconscious by the golf club, which struck him on the temple.

Urge Travelling Tax Commission

By CHESTER BLOOM

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, May 28.—The Senate committee on income tax was busy today making minor alterations in its report on lengthy hearings held during the past two months. The report, it is learned, will recommend the setting up of a travelling commission to hear appeals against tax decisions of the deputy minister of the department of national revenue, income tax branch.

THIS COMMISSION will fix its own places of holding hearings, dates, and rules for receiving and hearing appeals. The hearings will be held in private except where the appellants desire an open hearing.

The commission rules will follow largely those set down for hearings by the Railway Commission in sections 17, 18 and 19 of the Railway Act.

Bormann's Case Ends War Trials

NUERNBERG, May 28.—(UPI)—Martin Bormann's case will end the trial of individual defendants by the war crimes tribunal, the prosecution said today. With testimony in his case scheduled to be completed in a day or two, defence and prosecution will prepare for the final summation of the cases. Bormann's lawyer asked permission of the tribunal today to call four witnesses to clarify whether Bormann actually is dead. He claimed the Four-Power agreement does not permit passing sentence against a man who is dead—only against one who is absent.

Veterans Decline Free Return Trip

OTTAWA, May 28.—(CP)—Two hitch-hiking veterans from the University of British Columbia declined with thanks yesterday a suggestion in the veterans' committee of the commons that their expenses from Ottawa to Vancouver be paid.

Grant Livingstone and Ray Dewar, appearing before the committee in support of a request for higher student-veteran allowances, said they preferred to get back to Vancouver by their own resources. They hitchhiked to Quebec City last week to attend the biennial convention of the Canadian Legion, and they plan to return by the same method.

It called for a halt to wholesale distribution of decorations "that will tend to cheapen them," and declared that the higher a man's rank, the more difficult it should be for him to merit an award.

It also proposed reforms in pay, allowances, messing facilities and inspections.

Research Council Will Remain Busy

OTTAWA, May 28.—(CP)—Plans to keep the National Research Council operating during peacetime on its war-expanded basis to meet the needs of Canada in this technological age were disclosed yesterday in the commons by Reconstruction Minister Howe.

Mr. Howe spoke in moving a resolution to a bill providing for continuance of the committee of the Privy Council on industrial research and for the appointment of two vice-presidents to the council. Crown corporations also will be created to carry out some of the powers of the council.

DURING THE RESEARCH discussion Mr. Howe disclosed consideration was being given to placing the operations of Eldorado Mining and Refining, the source of rare uranium, under the council. The bill would provide for that action.

The other crown corporation to be formed would own and commercialize patents owned by the council.

Mr. Howe said some of the new laboratories being planned by the council would conduct experiments on buildings, road research and radio and radar.

TO FORM GOVT.

THE HAGUE, May 28.—(AP)—Queen Wilhelmina yesterday invited Dr. Louis Joseph Maria Beel, a leader of the Catholic People's party, to form a new government of The Netherlands following recent elections. Dr. Beel was interior minister in the resigning cabinet of Prime Minister Willem Schermerhorn.

MR. SMITH WITHDREW his remark and Mr. Stewart said he would withdraw his reference to Mr. Murphy, adding, "but, Mr. Chairman, you know what I mean."

Mr. Smith was on his feet again, pointing to the curtains screening the opposition lobby and shouting to Mr. Stewart:

"You're a big fellow. How about coming back there to settle it?"

Rev. E. G. Russell (S.C.—Macled) said he was interested in hearing Mr. Smith's challenge to Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart said he was getting ready for a time to go out into the lobby and stand on the sidelines to watch the action. He thought for a time, too, that Mr. Stewart was going to cross the floor, throw his arms around the minister's neck and sing "ball, ball, the gang's all here."

"YOU ARE SAYING he is a Jew—come out and say it," interrupted Mr. Howe. "If you want to make this dirty we will have it good and dirty."

Acting chairman G. H. Golding interrupted to say it was not in order to discuss matters being dealt with by the war expenditures committee.

Another unruly scene developed when Alistair Stewart (C.P.—Winnipeg North) rose and referred to Mr. Murphy as having made a "cowardly" statement.

Arthur Smith (P.C.—Calgary West) jumped to his feet on a point of order saying that Mr. Stewart should withdraw his statement "if he has the gumption."

"I certainly hope the honorable member (Mr. Smith) will withdraw that remark," snapped the chairman.

MR. SMITH WITHDREW his remark and Mr. Stewart said he would withdraw his reference to Mr. Murphy, adding, "but, Mr. Chairman, you know what I mean."

Mr. Smith was on his feet again, pointing to the curtains screening the opposition lobby and shouting to Mr. Stewart:

"You're a big fellow. How about coming back there to settle it?"

Rev. E. G. Russell (S.C.—Macled) said he was interested in hearing Mr. Smith's challenge to Mr. Stewart.

New Men or New Policy?

The Hon. C. D. Howe has announced that all federal government housing activities have been centralized in the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and that a coordinator of housing has been appointed.

No one will quarrel with this change. Far too many diverse agencies have been concerned with the critical housing problem, far too many authorities have split the ultimate responsibility. This, then, is an excellent bit of administrative amendment. If it had been imposed upon a sound basic policy, it would perhaps have perfected the entire set-up.

But no administrative changes will help much at this late date when housing has become a desperate and crucial factor in the lives of hundreds of thousands of Canadians. What is needed today is not new corporations and new organizations and new men, but a drastically new fundamental policy.

The plain fact is that nothing has been done or is being done, under the old set-up or under the new, to provide homes for those 80 percent of Canadians who earn less than $2,150 a year and can pay no more in rentals or purchase instalments than from $10 to $25 per month.

The equally plain fact is that private enterprise cannot possibly build homes to rent or purchase at rates which would be government subsidy can make such homes available.

Does Mr. Howe's new incorporation or his new coordinator take these two cardinal facts into consideration? Until they are taken into consideration and until government subsidy is provided to build modern low-rental homes, all the reorganization in the world will be no more than ineffective official posturing.

The Union Jack

Some Quebec members have let it be known that they will stage a prolonged fight in the House of Commons if the special committee should recommend that the Union Jack occupy a place in the design of the proposed Canadian flag.

That being the case, even if the committee hasn't planned to include the Union Jack in the design they should be asked to be there anyway, but this threatened filibuster adds another reason for including it. To omit it under threat would be to submit to blackmail by a minority of chronic dissenters who are going to dissent in any case unless they are allowed to draw the design themselves.

The Union Jack is the flag of the British Empire. It is flown from warships, over fortresses and military headquarters wherever located by British representatives in every part of the world. It may be properly flown by the citizens of any dominion or colony. It has a place on the flags of Australia and New Zealand, as well as Britain.

The significance of the "Jack" is simply that of membership in the British Commonwealth of nations. Flown in Canada it denotes the fact, which not even the most ardent isolationist can deny, that Canada belongs to this distinguished company of nations. As part of Canada's flag design, that would be the message it carried at home and abroad.

What objection, aside from unreasoning prejudice, there can be to including this Empire emblem, is beyond imagination. In the members in question are thinking about the battle of the Plains of Abraham, they should think also about what followed that battle. When the French-speaking people of Quebec were granted freedom in religion, the right to use their own language, the right to govern themselves, the flag which flew over the official proceedings was the Union Jack.

It was under that emblem their rights have been protected at home and fought for beyond the seas. They should insist that it have a place in the pattern of Canada's flag, for it is the symbol of the authority under which they have dwelt in freedom and security.

Was it Victory?

George Bernard Shaw has been widely publicized in his emphatic refusal to take any part in Britain's victory celebration on June 8 because, in the first place, "aprears are not in my line" and, in the second place, because "victory is very far from being won yet."

It is surprising to find that the ancient and brilliant Irishman who prides himself on his heterodoxy should so vehemently subscribe to an opinion which has become so orthodox as to be common and so common as to be trite.

For everywhere men are puckering their mental lips over the sour flavor of victory and asking if the fruits of military success are so unsweet was victory really victory at all?

There is, of course, a superficial reason to agree with their discontent. For, as many warned during the war, the lights of Utopia did not flash on immediately the conflict was over. No new benign system of society burst upon the waiting world. The war that was fought to establish the essential brotherhood of men did not succeed in implementing that prodigious fact with any marked parade of instances of it.

It is difficult, one must admit, to discern the florescence of victory in a world where new labor troubles spring up overnight, where greed seems to be established in human contacts more firmly than ever before and where incapacity of leadership has prohibited the men who won the war from even securing decent accommodation for their families.

One may indeed take a gloomy view of the post-war state and enquire with some justification "Was it victory after all?"

It is astonishing, however, to find Mr. Shaw inclining to this view. Because Mr. Shaw usually looks below the surface and discerns the obvious.

And surely it requires no unusual perspicacity to understand that the world and the world's conditions are so much better than they would have been with a Nazi victory that they could be ten times worse than they are at present and still justify some jubilation.

No tremendous insight is needed to understand that the aftermath of war is always painful and distressing, that men and women cannot go through six years of turbulence and strain without uncovering some of the less wholesome traits of human behavior.

History has shown that the only cure for it is time—with a good deal of faith. This is the time, not for dark forebodings, but for much of the latter.

A Diplomatic Blunder

Although clothed in some at least of the raiment of sensationalism, there is really nothing sensational in a Red Fleet writer's allegation that Operation Muskox was military in its nature. It was. And the greatest disservice certain Canadians in responsible positions could have done, and did, was to pretend publicly that it was not.

Every nation keeps its defence scheme or schemes up to date. New developments create new factors which call for modifications. While the details are "top secrets" no one ever pretends there is no such policy. The very fact that friendly Russian aircraft during the war flew over Canada on the shortest route to and from the home front suggested the need for overhauling Canada's defence policy, as it must also have suggested to the Russian general staff an overhauling of their own. Any Russian amateur of strategy would have thought of Muskox only as a routine reconnaissance had not Canadian authorities pretended otherwise.

The Red Army has no doubt thoroughly reconnoitred all the overland routes to the Bering Strait. But supposing the operation had been carried out with ostentatious publicity and under the pretence that it was strictly a scientific expedition, would not Canadians have been mistrustful? And rightly so? A journalist who wrote to this paper that there was more in it than met the eye would not even have been thought clever.

Mr. Jafaar Pishevari, the self-styled leader of the self-styled independent province of Azerbaijan, is peeved at Britain and the United States because they have not backed his efforts to tear Iran to pieces. For whatever reason, he appears to think it their duty to help chop that little country into postage-stamp states—convenient "bites" for some future super power to gobble up. If Iranians in general have any quarrel with the world of what he is trying to do it seems likely that Mr. Jafaar Pishevari will be shot or hanged—without protest from London or Washington.

Whatever democracy is, its goal is the perfection of the human person, his opportunity, freedom, character, security, and personal and social welfare. All forms of society can only ultimately be judged by the kind of persons they create, as upon them as individuals and as types, depends the future of the survival of a civilization and of a culture.

There are minimum physical conditions necessary for democracy. But physical conditions can reduce human beings to a jungle type—in which case democracy is quite impossible. All theories can be broken down by adverse realities of human existence.

Food Ahead

By Harper Prowse, M.L.A.

The more I study Canada's attempts to deal with the housing problem, the more I become convinced that for some reason the government doesn't want to provide homes for those in the lower income brackets. This is a horrible and disturbing thought. I am neither proud of it nor happy about it. But I can't get rid of it.

Why would the government continue to overlook the needs of that four-fifths of our people whose income is less than $2,000 per year? Why particularly should they make no effort to do what we are asked to do? Why should we be asked to do what we are asked to do? Why should we be asked to do what we are asked to do?

FOOD REQUIREMENTS vary. Growing children require a daily gram of grain and a half a pound of meat. Heavy manual workers require more than sedentary workers, but an average of 2,000 calories per day if systematically rationed, would be an entirely adequate standard, and would save nearly 47 billion calories of food per day. That is enough food for 2,500,000 persons 2,000 calories per day, half the population of the United Kingdom or France.

I have not the slightest doubt that the American people would do this, if the rationing was as fair as it has been in England, and if an American relief organization, absolutely free of political shenanigans, distributed the food.

Today in Europe

PARIS—Despite accusations and epithets all parties are hurling at each other, there is something of the atmosphere of shadow boxing about the French elections. Under proportional representation, some form of coalition will be inevitable. The leaders of the three large parties, the Communists, the Popular Republicans, and the Radical Socialists, are all ready to do so. The Communists will be slightly stronger than now, but the joint Communist-Soviet representation may be weaker.

SUCH IS THE strange epilogue of French politics that many intelligent people of modern opinions hope the present representation of parties will be approximately maintained in the new assembly. If Communists were to gain greatly, they could probably dominate the next premier and take over many key ministries.

But there would be other dangers if the Communists were to suffer a severe electoral reverse. In that case, the center and right-wing parties might be strong enough to form a government without Communist participation. But moderate French opinion fears having Communists in the opposition, even more than having them in the government. Outside the government, they would be able to do anything.

There is no doubt that, in a grave emergency, a large majority of the French people would wish to summon the General back from his retirement. But there is no doubt that de Gaulle's tactics are both correct and effective.

For a long time prior to his death in action in World War II, the Rev. J. Gordon Brown, minister of Robertson United church, had dreamed of a youth centre where boys and girls in the west end of the city might gather for activities of all kinds. Projects of a Maytime tea to be held Friday in the church parlors will aid in this Robertson Memorial Hall fund.

The tea will embrace eight separate tables of home cooking, provided by each of the W.A. circles of the church. Mrs. George Carmie, president of the W.A. will receive the guests with Mrs. J. A. Leask and Mrs. L. H. Cobbedick as co-conveners.

Jimmy Flannigan To Fight Friday

Rocky Wagner and Jimmy Flannigan of Montreal will provide the main event on the Friday fight card at the Empire theatre, it was announced by promoter Charles Dean last night. They will clash in a scheduled 16-round bout.

Friday's card, which was originally arranged for Benjie Geary and Tommy Deschambeault to meet for the western Canada welterweight championship, was disrupted when the Calgary Boxing Commission announced over the week-end that Deschambeault was in no condition to fight after his bout with Ray Colling last Wednesday night in Calgary.

In an attempt to find a suitable opponent for Geary, Dean last night that he tried to get Colling to meet Geary, however, Colling was unavailable at such short notice.

The semi-main event on Friday's card will now see Jack Berry and Bill Donwood in action. Dean also announced that George Mankins, who recently made a splendid showing in the northern Alberta eliminations, would meet Chief Mistaken of Calgary in one of the preliminaries Friday night.

Clarence Campbell
May Assist Dutton

TORONTO, May 28.—(CP)—A heavy agenda with many contentious questions faces the governors of the National Hockey League at their meeting in New York June 17, Con Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, said last night.

"Much of the trouble centres around the New York Americans franchise," he said.

Problems are a new long-term agreement for the league and its 12 teams and a suggestion to increase the schedule from 50 to 60 games.

A new entry from Philadelphia, raising the loop to seven clubs, is apparently all ready to function.

Question of appointing an assistant to President Mervyn Dutton is also on the agenda.

Clarence Campbell, well-known Edmonton referee, among those mentioned for the post. Campbell still is overseas.

Frank Strassman, youthful Toronto, Ohio, golfer and chief United States representative, drew a tough opening opponent and a big gallery but conquered both and advanced to the third round.

Shell Hurls Three-Hitter For Busmen

Elwood Shell, making his first start of the season, capped a steady three-hit pitching performance at Clarke Stadium Monday night by fanning Ray Barry for the final out to cut off a Maple Leaf rally and give Arrows a 6-5 Edmonton Junior Baseball League victory.

Maple Leafs had the sacks loaded with two out in the last of the seventh, but Shell heaved four balls past Barry, three of them strikes.

EARL SAMIS' LEAFS entered the last frame two runs down.

The game was then called because of darkness.

ARROWS HAD to come from behind to mark up the victory. Leads led 4-3 going into the fifth, but Joe Shandro's gang marked up two on a pair of doubles to centre field by Matt Kennedy and Mike O'Neill, a single by Bill Kastling, a fielder's choice and a stolen base, on top of the fifth to take a 5-4 lead.

Deciding run came in the half of the seventh, however, when Elmer Noon doubled to centre and was driven in by O'Neill who singled to left field.

The game was the first of the junior league season. Two clouters, Dick Lowe who pitched the game as well as Shell.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

GALS AGLEE :: by E. Simms Campbell

Dorothy Dix Says:

The besetting sin of mothers is jealousy. It is responsible for more old maids and causes more divorce than any other one thing in the world, and the curious thing about it is, that the women who commit this terrible crime against their children do not deliberately start out with malice aforethought to wreck their sons' and daughters' lives.

On the contrary, they are very often the overly devoted mothers who desire their children's happiness and would make any sacrifice to secure it, except the supreme one of yielding the first place to Johnny's and Mamie's hearts to another. And this the possessive mother cannot do. Of course, no mother admits that she is jealous or recognizes that the green-eyed monster is at the bottom of half of the catastrophes in her family life over which she sheds such bitter tears; but it is true, all the same. IT IS MOTHER JEALOUSY, for instance, and the fear that the baby may love Papa better than it does her, that makes so many women practically separate their children entirely from their fathers. Mother monopolizes Junior from the cradle. She never lets father have any say-so in his rearing. She never permits father to take him out alone, and she holds father over him as a dire threat of punishment if he is naughty.

Mother realizes her desire to be all-in to her youngsters, but it is a boomerang that in the end annihilates her. For when the time comes the children need a father to guide and control them, there is only a strange man in the house with whom they are totally unacquainted and to whom they cannot talk freely.

If you will delve into the case history of nearly all of the men and women you know who are anti-social, with no knack for making friends or getting along with other people, you will find that most of them are the victims of a jealous mother who kept them segregated from other children, and who boasted that she was Johnny's and Sally's only companions.

MANY MOTHERS are chagrined because their daughters, who are pretty and attractive, have few dates. If any, and never marry. In many cases the answer is—mother's jealousy. For while the mother wanted her daughters to be popular and have good times, she did not want them to marry. The minute she saw them getting starry-eyed over any youth, she began a smart campaign against him.

She went back into his family history and traced it to the wrong side of the tracks, or she criticized the grammar or his clothes or her untidiness until she made him appear as a figure of fun and so disdained the girls that they dropped him. The deadliest rival that many a lad has to deal with is the girl's mother.

According to statistics, mothers break up more homes and cause more divorces than all the major and minor sins. Again it is the jealous mother getting in her dirty work. She can't bear for John to be crazy about his wife and to go to her with his plans and confidences. She can't bear for Sue to worship her husband and to be guided by his opinions. Instead of thinking the mother, who bore her, is an oracle. So she begins to undermine their houses of happiness.

Not consciously, for few mothers are cruel enough to wantonly wreck their children's marriages, but without realizing what she is doing, a jealous mother can keep her children's attention so focused on the faults of their mates that they are completely disillusioned, and another marriage goes into the discard.

Perhaps nothing in the world creates more sorrow than mother jealousy, and the tragedy of it is, that it is so useless. For the love that children have for their mothers and that their mates are so different that they do not conflict in any way.

Why Grow Old?

Don't think you are the only person who has broken nails. Here lovely Actress Leza Holland examines a broken nail. Proper care and being careful to use the cushion of your fingers as much as possible will help you avoid such accidents.

By Josephine Lowman

COSMETIC COMPANIES are working constantly on creams and formulas. They are adding and subtracting new ingredients in order to overcome faults in their products, and to make you even lovelier.

Those houses which concentrate on hands know many tricks in hand and nail care. I have asked one of them to pass some of these along to me. I found them most interesting and am giving them out to you today.

1. Massage your nails often with cuticle oil. This keeps the skin about the nails soft and free from hang nails.

2. Keep your hands soft at all times with the use of hand lotion. Use it on your elbows too. Once a week sleep with cotton gloves on, after saturating your hands with cream or lotion.

3. To make your nails appear longer, apply lacquer over the moon. If your nails are already long let the half moon show. This will make your fingers appear longer and more tapering.

4. LEARN TO USE the cushion of your fingers when you open a bobby pin or turn on the light. Use a pencil to dial your telephone numbers to avoid chipping.

5. Try hand exercises to develop graceful, firm, expressive hands. Never file your nails when they are wet or even damp.

6. Hot water softens your nails and makes them tear more easily. If you use nail polish tends to be crumbly when you use it with a renewer. Add the renewer and allow it to stand over night.

7. If your nail polish tends to be crumbly when you use it with a renewer. Add the renewer and allow it to stand over night.

8. Use nail polish remover, lemon or peroxide, to remove unsightly stains.

9. Be sure that your nail polish and lipstick match. This is a "must" for today's well-styled woman.

10. KEEP THE TOPS of your polish bottles clean. This will prevent thickening and evaporation. If you wish to have my exercises for the hands send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 12 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. Released by The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1946.

To finish top in any one session of the world championship Masters Individual tournament is quite an achievement. At the end of the first session this year Jack Cushing of New York was out in front. Cushing is ideally suited to individual. His warm personality makes him a fine partner, and he plays his cards very well.

He employed two end-plays to make five-odd with today's hand. North bid one spade for want of a better bid. He showed the true strength of his hand when he jumped to three no trump. Cushing (South) won the opening heart lead with the queen, led a small diamond to dummy's queen, then played a low club from dummy and finessed the Jack.

The king of clubs was cashed and when the ten fell, Cue ten played a small diamond to dummy's ace. Now he played a small spade from dummy and West won with the king, which was the first end-play. West elected to lead a diamond, which went right into Cushing's king.

On the two diamonds East had discarded two spades. Cushing now cashed the ace of hearts and East had to let another spade go. The ace of spades was cashed and a small spade led, throwing East in the lead. Now East had to lead away from the queen-eight of clubs into dummy's ace-nine.

Members of the Kiwanis club at their Monday luncheon in the MacDonald hotel acclaimed performers in a display of physical strength and dexterity in weight-lifting and tumbling provided by five members of the YMCA, including Kiwanian Arthur Warburton, physical director of the YMCA, under whose direction the display was put on.

Bar bell weights of from 140 to 200 pounds were handled with deceptive ease by Henry Henke and Maurice Tudge, while Warburton, Jim Zahar and Don Bacon, physical director of the Brandon YMCA, executed a series of top-flight turns in the art of tumbling.

The meeting was in charge of R. M. Moore, club president. Sapphires and rubies are different only in color, both being colored forms of corundum.
